Qahal

The Talmud interprets the exclusion of certain people from the qahal as a prohibition against ordinary Jews marrying such people. Brafmann authored the books The Local and Universal Jewish Brotherhoods 1868 and The Book of the Kahal 1869 , claiming that the qahal was an international network under the control of the , its aim being to undermine Christian entrepreneurs, taking over their property and ultimately seizing power. Mirza Ghalib said: Zahid sharab peenay dey masjid mein beth ker Ya wo jagah bata dey jahan per Khuda na ho Allama Iqbal said: Masjid Khuda ka ghar hey peenay ki jagah nahi Kafir kay dil mein ja wahan per Khuda nahi Ahmed Faraz said: Kafir kay dil se aaya hoon mein ye dekh ker Khuda mojud hey wahan magar usay pata nahi Someone said: Dil-e-kafir mein Khuda tou hey lekin Khof-e-Khuda nahi Ghalib, Iqbal aur Faraz ko shayad pata nahi Mirza Ghalib said: Zahid sharab peenay dey masjid mein beth ker Ya wo jagah bata dey jahan per Khuda na ho Allama Iqbal said: Masjid Khuda ka ghar hey peenay ki jagah nahi Kafir kay dil mein ja wahan per Khuda nahi Ahmed Faraz said: Kafir kay dil se aaya hoon mein ye dekh ker Khuda mojud hey wahan magar usay pata nahi Someone said: Dil-e-kafir mein Khuda tou hey lekin Khof-e-Khuda nahi Ghalib, Iqbal aur Faraz ko shayad pata nahi Who is that someone? There are differing opinions in the Talmud as to what this consists of, but the universally accepted ruling refers to the offspring of defined as relations with a married woman or incest, as defined in the.

However, rich and powerful individuals gradually began to dominate the qahals, abusing their position for their own benefit.

Qahal

It prepared the groundwork for , and the word qahal features in that text. These Polish-Lithuanian qahals quickly came to be with major regulatory control over Jewish communities in the region; they administered commerce, hygiene, sanitation, charity, , , and relations between landlords and their tenants. This theory was taken up by anti-Jewish publications in Russia and by some Russian officials, such as P.

Ghalib, Iqbal, Faraz, Etc.

By sayin one silly couplet over ma'khana one can't reach that level of ahdab! The theme originated with , a Russian Jew who had a falling out with qahal tax-agents and to get revenge - converted to and then the , authoring polemics against the and the qahal.

Their were elected by the local Jewish community, and consisted of 4 elders Hebrew: zeqenim with a further 3-5 honorary members Hebrew: tovim. In the , it is suggested that the word manzer derives from mun zar, meaning a strange blemish, and thus suggesting illicit parentage in some sense. There is a dispute, even in traditional Judaism, about whether this prohibited group of men should include those who have become, at some point since their birth, emasculated as the result of a disease.
