

Nursing, midwifery and health visiting education - a statement of strategic intent

Department of Health - Functional analysis and occupational standards: their role in curriculum development

There are four statutory nursing and midwifery bodies in the UK, the National Boards:

- the English National Board for Nursing, Midwifery and Health Visiting (ENB);
- the National Board for Nursing, Midwifery and Health Visiting for Scotland (NBS);
- the Welsh National Board for Nursing, Midwifery and Health Visiting (WNB);
- the National Board for Nursing, Midwifery and Health Visiting for Northern Ireland (NBNi).²⁶

The National Boards approve educational institutions²⁶ and courses for nurses, midwives and health visitors within their respective countries based on standards set by the UKCC.^{27 28} The Boards are likely to be abolished in the reform which is likely to establish a single entity to deal with all the regulatory issues arising.

The Boards Websites list all their approved courses that are extremely extensive. In England NHS Careers, established in April 1999, now provides information on pre and post registration courses.

The project 2000 candidate nurses all undertake diploma or degree level courses. Courses leading to eligibility to register on Parts 12 to 15 are validated both by the relevant National Board and the university in which they are offered. The academic level of courses leading to eligibility to register on Parts 12 to 15 has been set by the UKCC at a Diploma of Higher Education. There are some courses which lead to a degree or honours degree.

The courses have a common 18-month foundation and then split into four separate branches for the second eighteen months leading to qualifications as

- Adult nurse
- Mental health nurse
- Learning disabilities nurse

Advancing Nursing Practice: The Emergence of the Role of Advanced Practice Nurse in Saudi Arabia

Relevant nursing experience can also come from family situations. If nurses are to be prepared for a pivotal role in the care of people in the twenty-first century, nurse education has to develop innovative and creative initiatives to meet the needs of the citizens of the region served Berkley, 1992. Saudi Arabia has yet to define, legislate or regulate APN.

Student clinical placement

It is important to care for patients today while laying solid foundations for our APNs of the future. Nurse educationalists thus have a responsibility to encourage and develop nurses who can respond proactively to the rapidly changing healthcare environment and the requirements of demanding healthcare consumers a key theme of this book.

Advancing Nursing Practice: The Emergence of the Role of Advanced Practice Nurse in Saudi Arabia

There was general agreement between the participants that it was necessary to prepare teachers to be facilitators in shared learning environments; however, no particular type of preparation was considered essential. Think carefully about whether there was one particular incident that sparked your interest in nursing.
