Winds of Time (After Cilmeri #1.5) by Sarah Woodbury

In fact, I could with relative ease, plumb the hoses and tubes I needed for input, output, overboard discharge, and electrical wiring under the seat.

Winds of Time by Zoe Matthews

JoAnne has pared down the other things like cooking utensils and so on. Over the course of the next few weeks, I ended up making the decision to remove the 30 gallon stainless steel tank sitting under the settee, and replace it with the watermaker.

Winds of Time

Today, we live aboard our adventure — called, Adventure. So to Gloria and Todd, we wish you well and want you to go on as you have, strong, safe and happy, together.

The Winds of Time — Robert Paterson

We have been staying here in Southport on a dock and DO have access to water, which is great. As it turned out, the fuel pump failed.

The Winds of Time

Life to us, is an Adventure. Inside is an O ring that was probably worn.
