Use these procedures when presenting a difficult task.
Prevention Strategies	<ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Maintain a speed of instruction that is quick enough and fluid enough to encourage engagement and avoid down time.</li><li>• Only present tasks that are at his independent work level or instructional level (based on assessment).</li><li>• Set up his daily schedule so that preferred activities follow work tasks.</li><li>• Use an appropriate variable ratio schedule of responding (e.g., on average, complete 5 tasks before getting a break/preferred item) that challenges Christian, without evoking the above target behaviors.</li><li>• Use appropriate prompting procedures and errorless instruction as outlined in his skill acquisition programs.</li><li>• State clear expectations and support comprehension with visuals as needed.</li></ul>
Teaching New Skills	<ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. Functional communication training -- requesting a break/all done.</li><li>2. Tolerating work demands.</li></ol>
Consequence Procedures	Differential Reinforcement of an Alternative Behavior: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• When Christian completes a task without engaging in the above target behaviors, provide a highly preferred item/activity for 5-20 minutes depending on the difficulty of the task and duration of time working.</li></ul> Escape Extinction: <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. If Christian requests a break, remove the task and allow Christian to engage with a mildly/moderately preferred item for 3-5 minutes. Set a timer for the length of the break. When the break ends, return to the original task presented.</li><li>2. If Christian engages in one of the above target behaviors, continue to present the task and, if necessary, other compliance tasks, until he calms. Do not remove the task until he is calm.</li></ol>
