He lost all his means and we were forced to leave Freiberg and move to Vienna. What we call happiness in the strictest sense comes from the preferably sudden satisfaction of needs which have been dammed up to a high degree. What progress we are making.

What Did Freud Really Think of Zionism?

With the help of international pressure on the Nazi government Freud was allowed to leave with his family. In 1930, just a few months after the violence had come to a stop, Keren HaYesod, a fundraising organization established by the Zionist Congress to help Jews to immigrate to the Land of Israel, launched a public relations campaign for the Yishuv, the Jewish settlement in the Land of Israel. Just the opposite, many times he would joke about various situations, and make various comments about his Jewishness.
