Biography

Micajah came to this state several years after my father and remained some time, thence to Springfield, Ohio, where he married and raised a son and daughter - his son, James Abner, visited us in Wayne County some thirty years ago.

Catalog

Reed City, Michigan: no publisher listed, 1905. Captain Mason, estimated to be just 35 years old, and most of his crew perished.

Monroe History

Many not belonging to Father's train got across on his permit. About the first thing we learned to do in those early days was to work up flax, while the girls were taught to spin and weave. We are especially fortunate in recent years to have had papers given at our annual meetings by new members—young members, many of whom are college or even high school students.

A Century of Wayne County Kentucky, Chapter 10

Compiled by workers of the Writers' Program of the Work Projects Administration in the State of Washington. Her children are Linna Berry, living in Sacramento, California; Sue Masden, in Louisville, down in Portland; ½ don't know her address; Lizzie Stoddard, of Nappa, California; and Loretta Huffaker, who married a cousin of my father's, and lives in Wheatland, California. See 1853 list for further information on him.

Tottering as it is under the withering touch of time, whose impartial, irresistible march devastates alike the home of the we'll known and the obscure, this house is a type of the homes of the earliest settlers and one of the landmarks, fast disappearing, of the frontier days of Kentucky and Tennessee. An old community southeast of Milan that they named Grape is a symbol of the pioneer ambitions to create wine country in Monroe and Washtenaw Counties.
