Marshalling the Evidence for

Governance Contributions to Health System Performance and Health Outcomes

In addition to its objections to specific discovery requests, Vola also argues that the discovery was unduly burdensome because the multiple defendants Vola sued propounded substantially similar discovery requests but drafted the requests such that they were not consistently numbered. Of the approximately 2300 local health departments, 39 are nationally accredited and more than 220 are in progress of being accredited. As LMICs embark on a path towards universal health coverage, this evidence gap could continue to hinder support for HSS from numerous stakeholders.

Do accredited health departments have greater accountability? The subpoena may also require witnesses to bring books, documents or other things under their control for production as evidence. Interrogatory number 14 requested Vola to identify all trial witness in accordance with rule 192.

Marshalling the Evidence for Governance Contributions to Health System Performance and Health Outcomes

To supplement the process feedback that PHAB collects systematically from participating health departments and site visitors, PHAB contracted with the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago to conduct a three-year evaluation of the accreditation program. Further, the responses to request numbers 20 and 21 fairly meet the substance of the requests even though Vola qualified the admissions by specifically stating what facts Vola admits.

In re Group

An admission of a purely legal issue is of no effect. If so, to assure their presence when required, counsel must serve a Demand to Appear at Trial reasonably in advance of trial.

In re Group

Vola objected to these requests because they called for legal conclusions and related to provisions in a contract that speak for themselves.
