Two poems by Pär Lagerkvist

The Executioner, himself eternal according to his own account, is the true Messiah that humanity deserves and requires, rather than the gentle self-deceiving rabbi who called himself the Prince of Peace, whom the Executioner crucified.

Pär Lagerkvist (Author of The Dwarf)

He studied Middle Age Art, as well as Indian and Chinese literature, to prepare himself for becoming a poet. In 1910 he went to Uppsala as a student and in 1913 he left for Paris, where he was exposed to the work of Pablo Picasso. The God whom they visit turns out to be a worn-out decrepit God who silently mourns the imperfection of His work.

Lagerkvist was born in 1891 in southern Sweden. Anguish Anguish, anguish is my heritage, the wound of my throat, the cry of my heart in the world. One of his central themes was the fundamental question of good and evil, which he examined through such figures as Barabbas, the man who was freed instead of Jesus, and Ahasuerus, the Wandering Jew.
