What is more, no Greek manuscript has the same list of apocryphal books accepted by the Council of Trent 1545-63; Beckwith, 194, 382-83. These are the exact same books as the Protestants have, but they are just arranged differently and some of the books are combined into one. This is not always a dependable procedure.

Reasons Why the Apocrypha Does Not Belong in Bible

It is felt that since they are similar for the four Gospels, although the same Gospels were composed at some interval from each other, those titles were not framed and consequently not prefixed to each individual narrative, before the collection of the four Gospels was actually made. Books were attributed to pagan authors, and names drawn from the repertoire of biblical personalities, such as , , Enoch , , , Baruch, and Jeremiah. It contains much important eschatological teaching.

A substantial number of works transmit proverbial teaching about religious and practical issues. So what are the apocryphal books, and what are they about? Hence, they were not under the province of the Christian church to decide.

Reasons Why the Apocrypha Does Not Belong in Bible

Acceptance by the Orthodox Church The Greek church has not always accepted the Apocrypha, nor is its present position unequivocal.
