Assessing Voter Attitude Toward Language Policy Issues in the United States

Hate Crimes Prevention Act became the first and only federal hate crime law to include gender identity; however, at the time of this writing, there was still legislative debate regarding the inclusion of gender identity in the Employment Non-Discrimination Act Transgender Law and Policy Institute, 2013. Language policy often attempts to silence other voices, erasing the power of people. In this case study, a secondary school in Hong Kong is examined for the impact of such policies in terms of the acquisition of the three official languages involved among the students at different levels, and the language attitudes and preferences of the students, teachers, and the administrators.
