Only eight percent are spiritual but not religious. Mike lives in the Green Bay, Wisconsin, area with his wife, Nancy, and has two children, Matt and Andrea. Nearly one-third 31% are Catholic, while 22% are white evangelical Protestant, 15% are black Protestant, and 13% are white mainline Protestant.

About one-quarter 24% of independents are spiritual and religious. But imagine what a devout believer might think: Millions of Americans have abandoned religion, only to re-create it everywhere they look.

PRRI

The spiritual divide persists regardless of levels of religiosity. So many of our listeners will have been on something of an emotional rollercoaster over the past five or six days.
