In the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries epidemics of diphtheria appear to have 291 frequently prevailed in many parts of Europe, particularly in Holland, Spain, Italy, France, as well as in England, and were described by physicians belonging to those countries under various titles; but it is probable that other diseases of a similar nature were included in their descriptions, and no accurate account of this affection had been published till M. As part of the Stuttgart 21 Project, there are plans to link the trade fair and airport to the proposed Stuttgart—Wendlingen high-speed railway between Stuttgart and Ulm by 2019. It is a favourite resort of English and Americans as well as of the French, its attractions being the beauty of its situation, the mildness of the climate and the good bathing.
