Evaluation of the Industrial Research Assistance Program (IRAP)

Our plan will also highlight opportunities to build on this new type of engagement with families and the public. Given the recent government emphasis on innovation, FedNor should explore opportunities to encourage a greater number of applications under the other streams. Since most hospital admissions or provincial incarcerations are less than 30 days, this approach allowed us to conduct the analysis without misinterpreting such events as treatment interruption.

Resolute Investing $40 Million in its Northwestern Ontario Operations and Spending an Additional $13.5 Million on Major Maintenance

The evaluation findings and conclusions are based on the analysis of multiple lines of evidence. As such, there remains a continued need for funding economic development projects in all of Northern Ontario.

Unlocking First Nations health information through data linkage

One approach was to display the linkage rate for only those records in the national IR database with an Ontario band number.

Information archivée dans le Web

We requested the all-cause mortality variable from ICES as a dichotomized variable. Indirect impacts are those changes in local workforce participation from sectors providing production inputs and services to the power plant.
