Annual Reports of the Council

Air quality in the United States today, especially in our cities, is much better than it was ten years ago. Among the more recent London affiliations those of the Curriers' Society and the City Men's Shoemakers are the most considerable as regards numbers. It has entered upon the phases of strife.

Message to the Congress Transmitting the Annual Report of the Council on Environmental Quality

Its destiny, henceforward, coalesces with the historical progress of the class that bear in their hands the regeneration of mankind. To support this effort, AUCD's technical assistance contract with AIDD includes funds for an annual leadership institute for UCEDD personnel.

Message to the Congress Transmitting the Annual Report of the Council on Environmental Quality

Inspectors General are generally responsible for annually auditing the financial statements for their respective agencies. The consequences of these prosecutions made themselves felt in the departments, where paltry vexations on the part of the Prefects succeeded to the condemnations of Paris.

Reports

In England, the unsettled state of politics, the dissolution of the old parties, and the preparations for the coming electoral campaign have absorbed many of our most active members, and, to some degree, retarded our propaganda.
