The Dakota Progressive: December 2019

The FSEIS is inadequate because it fails to consider the impacts to Ihanktonwan Dakota water rights that will result from construction of the pipeline or an oil spill. But not all paleontologists held the same view. Gay Kingman-Wapato, is the contact for the GPTCA and is empowered to work with your administration staff to coordinate a meeting at Secretary Jewell's earliest convenience.

Where's the glue? Institutional and cultural foundations of American Indian economic development

Although the presence of the fox species mentioned in the SEIS is stated as not being impacted in Southwestern Montana and Northwestern Montana, it is still significant that this place is their habitat. We lived as hunters, gathers and fishermen in the region of Sauk Prairie near the present-day town of Darrington, Washington.
