Two years later, all the Jesuits in Japan were assembled in Bungo. Petersburg soon after the disastrous Russian defeat at Austerlitz, were temporarily pigeonholed until the Tsar could reform his legions, but Siberia was much more free to take punitive action against the villainous makakas of Japan. The premier and other ministers of state issued instructions to the effect that the responsibility now devolved on the government, and the duty on the people, of enabling foreigners to reside confidently and contentedly in every part of the country.
