The Grammar of English Grammars/Key

It stands to reason that this kind of a church with the fire of Pentecost in the heart of its workers, would be well nigh irresistible. In the case of the first degree we see perhaps a person in temporary thoughtlessness and confusion, and enticed by circumstance, falling prey to the temptation of the moment. Stretching from blue Alleghenies to far-off Father of Waters ; — Such in its virgin perfection, a continent's garden and glory.

He grieved and longed for their salvation.

resurgenceofuniversalism

Eow, you; Voc Eala ge, O ye; Abl. Surely we should seek to know why We shun evils, and should try to shun them for the right reasons, and we may be given to see hopeful signs of progress, but I really must wonder how much certainty anyone can feel about exactly why he rejects this or that evil.

Protestant Dissent: Chapels and meeting

Several banks abandoned their customary places of business for temporary abodes in the outskirts of the town. William Wilson was in Newcastle. They rapidly coalesced socially, became better acquainted, more homogeneous and the result was more frequent intermarriages.

NZETC Subject Headings

One morning, when Father Harper went out to the field, he heard the seven-o'clock whistle sounding, and to his surprise he saw the old horse slowly emerge from the shed and go to the center of the pasture where there was a solitary tree. They have a prejudice against black coats, but this may not be altogether undeserved, and at all events it may very soon be removed.
