Photodynamic therapy with pulsed light sources: a theoretical analysis — Amsterdam UMC research portal

It has the same structure as the first time-gating device 132 a described above, with its acousto-optic modulator 142 b being connected to photodiode detector 21 and the second delay generator 25 b by a cabling connection 23 c. A typical arrangement for launching pump light into the inner cladding of the fiber amplification medium is to use a lens pair and dichroic mirror.

PLS Series

The exit beam path of the compressor 146 represents the final output 150 of the light source 120.

Multichannel pulsed light source with LED for photomultiplier testing

The extinction ratio at 25° C. The pulse stretcher may comprise a chirped fiber Bragg grating, and the pulse compressor may comprise a pair of diffraction gratings. The maximum pulse energy is 76 μ J.

Pulsed light sources

The pulse selector 52 has the form of a Mach-Zehnder interferometer 220 having two arms and fabricated on a lithium niobate substrate 222. The pulse compressor may comprise a pair of diffraction gratings.
