Conditions of Use and Compatibility 1 Where it is necessary for an employee to use personal protective equipment, the employer shall determine the conditions of use of such equipment, in particular the period for which it is worn, on the basis of a the seriousness of the risk, b the frequency of the exposure to the risk, c the characteristics of the workstation of each worker, and d the adequacy of the personal protective equipment. For the purposes of clarity, this does not change any previous guidance, that Non-Compliant PPE CANNOT be used in the work place, as part of a risk controlled strategy.

What is the Importance of Health and Safety at Workplace?

As part of these employers should consider female employees of childbearing age, including new and expectant mothers, assessing the risks that might arise from any process, working condition or physical, biological or chemical agents. When all the terms and conditions are not only told, even penned on a piece of paper during the hiring of the workers then the company saves itself from future problem that may happen due to any of the unwanted sudden situation.
