In pretty epic fashion, is the answer. All figures are from apart from the semi-improved grassland figure, which is an estimate derived from the National Ecosystem Assessment.

1 Peter 1:24 For, flesh is like grass, and all its glory like the flowers of the field; the grass withers and the flowers fall,

The grass withers, the flower fades, but the Word of our God stands for ever'. Clifford Simak's language and story building I was first exposed to in 1963 but it was so much more advanced by the time he wrote this one. The alien intelligence consists of a plant species who need tool using humans for assistance.

Isaiah 40:6 A voice says, And I asked, should I cry flesh is like grass, and all its glory like the flowers of the field.

He has a new nature, not that of the old man which was entirely corrupted and was crucified with Christ, but that of God's living and abiding Word. This story reminds me of Jack Finney, a rough contemporary of Simak's. Then the Eighth and Ninth Doctors appear advising the Tenth Doctor against his decision.

1 PETER 1:24 KJV all flesh [is] as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth,

And what have we here — the knowledge that time never can be understood or manipulated, that it is impossible for a plant to be intelligent.

And he wasn't speaking only of nuclear weapons, but ones like hatred and intolerance. In his 10th novel, Simak seems to take a dim view as to mankind's chances of making a successful first contact with an alien race. He comes forth like a flower and fades away' Job 14:1,2.

All Flesh Is Grass

This was just a bit. The book never bores or annoys and there are some decent surprises.

Doctor Who review: Time Lord Victorious: All Flesh is Grass (novel)

So we could assume that 75% of that will be grass and mainly PRG — say 75000ha. David extols God's goodness which surpasses the fragility and corruptibility of mankind: 'For he knows our frame; he remembers that we are dust. Telling an all new story for the Tenth Doctor that hasn't appeared in any other medium before.
