Reflections on 60 years of Imamāt

This was a significant step towards enhancing synergy among the various development activities of the Imamāt under a single institutional structure. His focus on education enabled the Jamat to start looking ahead and planning for the futures of their children and grandchildren. In 1957, Mawlana Hazar Imam, then a 20-year-old student at Harvard, became the Imam of the Time when his grandfather, Mawlana Sultan Mahomed Shah peace be upon him passed away.

Reflections on 60 years of Imamāt

At the same time, Mawlana Hazar Imam continued to remind the Jamat about the necessity of maintaining a balance between din and dunya — faith and world — both of which are inextricably linked.

A Short Biography of Hazrat Aisha (RA)

She was a fountain of knowledge to all who met her and remains so to those of us learning today about the religion Islam.

Prophet Mohammed's Letter to the People of Oman

As a young Imam, Mawlana Hazar Imam witnessed a period of significant political upheaval and instability which had a direct impact on the Jamat. She was a lively woman who stood for truth and justice.
