Little Green Book of Concrete

Like my noble friend, I hope that the Bill will make a real difference to the plight of homeless people. Sadly, it fails to address adequately the main excuses used for evicting tenants, which are a driving force of homelessness.

Debate: Environment Bill

The toxicity and the need to stop it has been raised for years. All those connected with homeless people, not just Members of Parliament but members of councils also, experience a terrible feeling of hopelessness.

Little Green Book of Concrete

So, on the one hand, we need to tackle the hazardous pollution, including plastic waste, that has led to the failure to meet the environmental targets to which the noble Lord referred.

Homelessness Bill: 12 Nov 2001: House of Lords debates

Most unusually, I will therefore increase the time limit for Back-Bench speeches to six minutes.

Housing and Planning Bill: 2 Nov 2015: House of Commons debates

Employment Zero hours contracts There was a 21% annual rise in those on zero hours contracts to over 900,000 people.

Homelessness Bill: 12 Nov 2001: House of Lords debates

However, there is no will from the Government. We ought to have a post-Covid survey of our churches, we ought to see how much this damage has increased, and we ought to make it a real object of Natural England and English Heritage to try to come together to address this, because much is at stake.

Homelessness Bill: 12 Nov 2001: House of Lords debates

We believe public bodies should be required to help further their purposes and the aims and objectives of individual national landscapes Management Plans. As the noble Baroness, Lady Parminter, said, the debate today has shown huge support for his amendment. That is a major supply-side issue.

Housing and Planning Bill: 2 Nov 2015: House of Commons debates

What has been done in relation to housing benefit? We must get the balance right—balance has occurred time and again in these debates—because there is a real danger from one particular and specific source to the monuments in our churches. Every penny that they get, they give half of it in tax.
