Analysis of Ivan Turgenev's Stories

This was not staged professionally until 1872. Thus, the background and the social changes going on in Russia at the time do function in his novel.

Essay on Ivan Turgenev's Fathers and Sons

The story of his first love is one that haunts Vladimir into his old age and telling his story acts as a reconciliation with his past and the pain he felt when his first love betrayed him. Home of the Gentry reveals Turgenev at his sharpest, yet for all the caustic observation it is an elegiac variation of a conflict that would also dominate his masterwork, Fathers and Sons. When Turgenev was 19, while traveling on a steamboat in Germany, the boat caught fire and Turgenev reacted in a cowardly manner.
