Editions Of The Writings Of William Cowper An Annotated Bibliography 1960

A Story of the Vaudois in 1689. Her fancy followed him through foaming waves To distant shores, and she would sit and weep At what a sailor suffers; fancy too, Delusive most where warmest wishes are, Would oft anticipate his glad return, And dream of transports she was not to know. To deck the shapely knoll That, softly swelled and gaily dressed, appears A flowery island from the dark green lawn Emerging, must be deemed a labour due To no mean hand, and asks the touch of taste.

William Cowper (Cowper, William, 1731

If this rhetoric did not immediately succeed, he would take the skirt of my coat between his teeth, and pull at it.

The Poet of Home Life : Centenary Memories of William Cowper (1900)

To them it flowed much mingled and defiled With hurtful error, prejudice, and dreams Illusive of philosophy, so called, But falsely. Sages after sages strove, In vain, to filter off a crystal draught Pure from the lees, which often more enhanced The thirst than slaked it, and not seldom bred Intoxication and delirium wild.

Following the Dissolution, the monastery was plundered as a source of building material.

Birth Poems

He was by now an elderly widower, but he kept up a punishing schedule of preaching and travel, much of it overseas. This study bundle is free for you to try out our resources while our site is still new.

Classic Poems complete poems well

With a smile Gentle and affable, and full of grace, As fearful of offending whom he wished Much to persuade, he plied his ear with truths Not harshly thundered forth or rudely pressed, But, like his purpose, gracious, kind, and sweet. Then he that sharped, And pocketed a prize by fraud obtained, Was marked and shurned as odious.

William Cowper

The custodian, Joan McKillop, is a retired schoolteacher. No tree in all the grove but has its charms, Though each its hue peculiar; paler some, And of a wamnish gray; the willow such, And poplar that with silver lines his leaf, And ash far-stretching his umbrageous arm; Of deeper green the elm; and deeper still, Lord of the woods, the long-surviving oak. Methinks I see thee straying on the beach, And asking of the surge that bathes the foot If ever it has washed our distant shore.
