Filmtracks: Contract on Cherry Street (Jerry Goldsmith)

Throughout his career, Goldsmith was considered a master in many genres, usually receiving mention for his Western, science fiction, or adventure styles, but it is sometimes easy to forget that he was also well practiced in the genre of police mysteries and thrillers. Also present is a large amount of piano, adding soaring runs to the quieter sections and a foreboding bass ostinato to the action cues. That's not to say there aren't any quieter moments - about 15-20 minutes of the score is devoted to the somber, moving main theme and quieter music, never devolving into mediocre underscore.

Contract on Cherry Street

Lee Thompson Cape Fear is a taut thriller about a lawyer Gregory Peck and his family being menaced by a vengeful psychopathic ex-con Max Cady played with authentic relish causing real chills by Robert Mitchum. He was survived by his third wife Irene Miller and three children, Adam, Zoe and Talia.
