Ladislas Farago (September 21, 1906 — January 15, 1980), American journalist, author

Farago created an international stir in 1972 with his assertion in a series of newspaper articles that Martin Bormann, a top aide to Adolf Hitler, was alive and living as a businessman in Argentina. In the movie he is seen deeply in love with Arendt, despite the indication of mutual infidelities that imply a marriage based in some form of.

They followed the tradition of one hundred years of German military thinking from Clausewitz to Ludendorff. Each issue presents theoretical advances, along with tested applications throughout the social and behavioral sciences. Farago became a naturalized United States citizen in the late 1930's, living in New York City.
