Majeed Amjad: The Poet Less Remembered

A major cause of the high hepatitis prevalence rates in Pakistan is the lack of proper preventive measures, even at the institutional level. Shab-e-Rafta was the only collection of his poetry published in his lifetime. Here he had a chance meeting with Maulana Abul Kalam Azad and was thoroughly impressed.

Chiragh Hasan Hasrat: a natural humorist

In 1951 he joined Radio Pakistan, Karachi, but developed differences with Z. Two other factors determining the success or failure of the Hepatitis Prevention and Control Programme are: correct information about the incidence rate of the types of hepatitis among the local population and adequate deployment of resources for vaccination, testing and treatment.

Majeed died on June 26, 1957 in Karachi.

Majeed Amjad: The Poet Less Remembered

D dissertation 'Chiragh Hasan Hasrat' was published by Idara-e-Yadgar-e-Ghalib in 2003 and I have relied heavily on his book in writing this piece. He is notable among the Urdu poets for his acute socio-political concerns on the one hand and romantic preoccupations on the other. Osman: I have included the outlines of his personal life but I am confused about your comment about controversies.

Leading, coaching, and mentoring the team

Reports in the press about shortages of injections for hepatitis treatment therapy are therefore worrying. Abdul Majeed Salik, Pitras Bukhari, Sufi Tabassum, Hafeez Jallandhri, M.
