Test for Past Infection

While the life of bog bodies like the Tollund man may seem barbaric, upon closer inspection their societies possessed many elements similar to our own ways of life today. To prove this theory, physicist John Archibald Wheeler designed an experiment, and Jean-François Roch conducted the experiment along with several esteemed colleagues.

The History of Body Image

Makes sense if you consider how hot Egypt is and how likely long hair is to collect pests and disease. By far, most of the bodies were placed in the bogs during the Iron and Roman period, between about 800 BC and CE 400.

Many of the bog bodies recovered from the Iron Age show signs of strangulation, bludgeoning, stabbing, disembowelment, asphyxiation, and poisoning. The materials found with the bodies suggested it might be very old, perhaps from the 1800s. Twigs has spoken out against the thinness ideal while recognizing her own role in perpetuating it.

10 Ancient Faces

The oldest bog body is Koelbjerg Man, a skeletalized body recovered from a peat bog in Denmark and dated to the Neolithic Maglemosian period about 8,000 BCE.

Bodies from the Bog, a book by Author James M Deem

Her father was so grief-stricken that he had her body embalmed to preserve her.

The History of Body Image

The '70s saw greater freedom for women, but I can not exactly remember why though.
