Can My Church Endorse a Political Candidate?

What has been painful, though, is seeing how many people who share his faith have chosen to support Trump at all costs, fervently declaring that the election was stolen. I know many moderates and Democrats who live in Republican states who do the same. Those men are important in their liberal and libertarian spheres, because they keep Mormonism vibrant and diverse.

Many Churchgoers Don't Know If Their Pastor Is a Republica.....

The topic was race, Islamophobia, and policing—and how together we might discern ways for our community to flourish. But if it is a surprise, that is an indication of why it is so important for the church to reclaim the very existence of the church as a politics. Another example is when the church killed thousands of people during the Spanish Inquisition.

Kingdom Voting: Christians Shouldn't Be Fully Committed to Either Party

Private, moreover, is the word we use to describe a fictive political agent, that is, the individual whose political views are to be respected no matter what they may be. It's a little awkward to ask, but we need your help. Those are three common warning signs, but there are many others.

Church leaders sell their souls to the Democratic Party

If one looks back on history, many times it was the government that controlled the church just as much as when the church controlled the government. These patterns are self-reinforcing in other ways, too. Do we reduce abortions by making them illegal—or by changing the culture: persuading people that life in the womb is life and addressing the social and economic conditions that account for the highest concentration of abortions? An example of this is the Arab-Israeli conflict an conflict that is about fighting because a long time ago their ancestors fought each other for the holy land and that the Jews and the Muslims can't live peacefully side by side.

Many Churchgoers Don't Know If Their Pastor Is a Republica.....

We cannot buy the lie that morally based positions are only 'religious' and should be kept out of political discourse or campaigns. Instead we are faced with a Catholic professoriate which very frequently denies the absolutes of the natural law, with the connivance of too many ecclesiastics who neatly sidestep the issue by constantly elevating the prudential over the absolute.

Should the Church be involved in politics?

In the end, however, it is in the nature of revolutionary cultures that old elites are swept away to make room for new. In the Old Testament we see; Daniel and Joseph Serving God in the office of Presidency.
