Catholic Church sexual abuse cases

According to the , public awareness of the sexual abuse of children in the United States and Canada emerged in the late 1970s and the 1980s as an outgrowth of the growing awareness of physical abuse of children in society.

Table of Contents: Expectations of Justice in the Age of Augustine

Pedophiles are still in the priesthood. I have tried in various ways over the years to address the frequently inadequate practical recommendations found in documents which express Catholic social teaching. Particularly since the Pastoral Plan of Action of November 1975, the Catholic Church has placed in gear its formidable political machinery.

History of Europe

The Holy See refused to waive his diplomatic immunity in order to allow him to be judged in Santo Domingo, but charged him before the Vatican criminal tribunal. Most other Protestant churches do not have bishops. In a period spanning decades, both the CBSI and SAI shielded 275 known or suspected predators who abused children after becoming aware of the reported acts of abuse.

United States Conference of Catholic Bishops

From 2001 to 2010, the examined sex abuse cases involving about 3,000 priests, some of which dated back fifty years. However, perhaps in part because the challenge of representing divine justice while simultaneously engaging in and even presiding over the mess of worldly justice was still novel for church officials, we can find ample evidence of their frustration and whatever measures they sought for relief.

The Bishops, Justice, Health Care and Social Change

No longer would the Church have at its disposal a force of millions of docile and obedient nuns. A public discussion of sexual abuse of minors by priests took place at a meeting sponsored by the National Association for Pastoral Renewal held on the campus of the in 1967, to which all U.

Priests: A Calling in Crisis by Andrew M. Greeley

Brooks and Menard 2013 suggest that domination is a form of mind control mechanisms employed by the members in elevated hierarchies. The same is true of executive measures of the state judicial authority, the non-compliance with which would subject — among other things — the competent ecclesiastical authority to serious sanctions for violation of criminal law.
