Sustrans/cycleways

Study of Milton Keynes Cycle Accidents, 1980 - 1990 Ketteridge.

A view from the cycle path: The importance of the mundane, why the mundane must go everywhere and why must be very good.

The rest cited a variety of other reasons, a mixture of leisure and utility.

Cycling in Hertfordshire

My MTB's bars won't go through the gap, although my road bikes will go through, the path is almost unrideable without suspension. This has often been marked by higher levels of cycling and less motor traffic. It's worth a read for no other reason than the bon mots from Eric Claxton, Stevenage's post war designer, who doesn't have kind words for the general driving population.
