The other two who had died were Henry Fox and Stephen Stanford, a licensed local preacher, who died on the Easton Circuit in September, 1830.

Review of the book, "History of the Episcopal Church of Liberia Since 1980: A Sequel", Authored by D. Elwood Dunn

Payne, we might as well tell you at once. In view of his former usefulness to the Connection and the disadvantages under which it might have to labor from his absence from its work and councils, we cannot but admire the stern resolve of this body, which dispensed with all the advantages it might otherwise receive, in order to carry out the principles of right and justice, in order to keep itself pure and free from everything which might militate against its advancement in the cause of the Lord; which cut off every one who by any course of conduct might retard that work, or give rise to offence, no matter what the cost might be. THE FIRST DIVISION INTO EPISCOPAL DISTRICTS.
