It was during the peaceful period between 1820 and 1860 that most of the grand mansions fronting East Battery were erected.

Drayton Hall » Charlestonians in War

From the outset, the park was planned as a place to be enjoyed by all people from all walks of life, not only for the wealthy who resided in the mansions overlooking its green spaces. The first of the shelling began in August 1863 from near Morris Island with the Swamp Angel, an 8 inch Parrott rifled cannon which could fire 200 pound incendiary shells authorized by Lincoln himself 4-5 miles into Charleston, ranging as far north as Calhoun St.
