Australian envoy lauds U.S. diplomacy in Southeast Asia

The Russian intervention in Hungary was not at first so bitterly received in Rangoon, but as soon as the facts of the situation were known Premier U Ba Swe did not hesitate to denounce it through his delegation at the United Nations and personally at the Second Congress of the Asian Socialist Conference in Bombay and at the New Delhi meeting of the Colombo Powers. The opium was grown in India — then under British control — and sold by British merchants to Chinese wholesalers in China. The reparations clauses in the treaty were the principal object of criticism.

Thailand

There were practically no opportunities to invest in China itself, so the American presence dropped off sharply.
