EU fundamental rights under threat in several member states

The ratio of non-performing loans has almost halved since 2014 and are approaching pre-crisis levels. At the same time, the Hungarian government modified the pension law so that no judge who returned to the bench could continue to receive a pension, as judges previously had when they worked beyond the general retirement age. Notably due to the differences in the respective intervention logics, management modes and the architecture of the instruments concerned, synergies have effectively taken place only in very limited cases.

The EU in 2018

Accession negotiations were formally opened in 2010; they too made good progress at first, but, after the change of government, they stalled before eventually being abandoned completely, after which Iceland withdrew its application for membership on 12 March 2015. Firstly, the President is nominated, and then the persons to be appointed as Members of the Commission are selected.

Roderick PACE, The European Union's Next Mediterranean Enlargement. Challenges and Uncertainties

Reiterates its endorsement of the majority of EIDHR funding being allocated to support for human rights defenders and civil society actions around the world, and supports the development of legal defence funds to help persecuted journalists and activists gain access to a lawyer and a fair trial; 127. The 2019 report found that the EU continues to improve, with innovation performance up in 24 Member States. It is, however, possible to apply to the CJEU or the General Court for an order to suspend the application of the contested act or for an interim court order.

How else to respond to the encouraging words of Prime Minister Tony Blair and Secretary Madeleine Albright or the letter of reassurance of Secretary General Javier Solana? The Treaty of Lisbon merges the EU and the European Community into a single European Union. Its role has become increasingly important with the expansion of EU responsibilities and competencies.

EUR
