Bird Watching Basics

Weather Basics During the peak of fall migration, birds are on the move every day, particularly as the North temperate zone days become increasingly short. To create this guide, avid Sibley thought through all the skills that enable him to identify David Sibley, America's premier birder and best-known bird artist, takes a new direction - in Sibley's Birding Basics he is concerned not so much with species as with the general characteristics that influence the appearance of all birds and thus give us the clues to their identity.

How To Start Birding

You may wish to start with one of the beginning guides from Stokes, Audubon, or Peterson, or you could select one of the more comprehensive guides. How to choose a field guide A field guide is probably the most important things a birder can have with him on a birdwatching expedition, after binoculars.
