

Is there a need for counselling/psychotherapy for parents of Downs syndrome children

-- Down Syndrome Factsheet (for Schools) (for Parents)

Description: -

- Is there a need for counselling/psychotherapy for parents of Downs syndrome children
- Is there a need for counselling/psychotherapy for parents of Downs syndrome children

Notes: Thesis (M. Sc.) - University of Surrey, 1997.

This edition was published in -

Filesize: 17.18 MB

Tags: #What #are #common #treatments #for #Down #syndrome?

Down Syndrome: Research Activities and Scientific Advances

Routine health maintenance is important because infants and children with Down syndrome are more likely to have otitis media, thyroid disease, congenital cataracts, leukemoid reactions, dental problems and feeding difficulties.

What are common treatments for Down syndrome?

Babies with Down syndrome will need a full heart workup to make sure there are no issues with the heart. Portsmouth, UK: The Down Syndrome Educational Trust. Seizures are diagnosed and treated similarly in children with and children without Down syndrome.

A guide for Foster parents of Down's Syndrome children

These children may be distressed in some situations especially when there is a lot of background noise.

Down Syndrome

Encourage physical fitness and involvement in all school activities, as well as extracurricular programs. It seems to me like the less capable they are, the more children they are raising. If possible, the mother and father should be together when they are told about their child's condition.

Related Books

- Entdeckung der Phänomene - Dokumente einer Philosophie der sinnlichen Erkenntnis : \[Texte von Philo
- Damn the Dardanelles! - the story of Gallipoli
- Drugoto litse na Vúzrozhdenkata literatura - rechnik na psevdonimite, zhivotüt na terminite, pogr
- Teaching students with language and communication disabilities
- Il procedimento amministrativo nei diritti europei e nel diritto comunitario - ricerche e tesi in di