Healthcare Architecture & Interior Design Firm

The design of schools according to varying educational theories is explained in the context of varying national and regional approaches. The IBC classifies independent living as R-2 residential use, which subjects it to the same building and safety requirements as multifamily housing and dormitories.

Senior Center Design Best Practices

Planning nursing home architecture design around costs Of course, on the surface it seems that delivering fully disability-friendly, custom group homes for seniors is tremendously expensive. Facility layout looks at physical allocation of space for economic activity in the plant.

Educational Facilities

The continuing care community, founded on Quaker ideals of inclusion and respect for older persons, offers 222 independent-living apartments, 24 enriched housing residences, and 42 skilled nursing units. Lasell Village features a formal continuing education program for senior residents to attend classes at the college. Also, hard-working staff need better break and relaxation spaces with comfortable seating, kitchenette, restrooms, windows and access to outdoors.

Activities for Senior Centers

Wellness seminars are a favorite at many senior centers and can help improve your quality of life. The open kitchen, for example, required adding new sections on hazardous areas to the Life Safety Code, which any nursing home receiving Medicare or Medicaid funding must follow.
