Mals Tokens

Finding cribs was not at all straightforward; it required considerable familiarity with German military jargon and the communication habits of the operators. Ron Guth of Early American Numismatic Auctions, Inc.

Mals Mach 2

These two pioneering 1974 photographic plates are entitled: Early English Copper Halfpence Struck in America.

Each drum had 104 wire brushes, which made contact with the plate onto which they were loaded. The candidate solutions, stops as they were called, were processed further to eliminate as many false stops as possible. The project required detailed research, and took 13 years of effort before the replica was completed, which was then put on display at the Bletchley Park museum.
