TAKEN IN NATURAL LIGHT: - this means I can see accurate colouring of your pet, and photos taken in natural light generally show more crisp detail FOCUSED ON YOUR SUBJECT: this really goes without saying TAKE PHOTOS ON THE CORRECT LEVEL: Try not to look down on your pet when taking photos, even though it might feel natural to do. This reduces contrast and provide a more flattering light that wraps around the face.

A Guide to Portrait Photography

They help tell a story. The key is to challenge some conventions of portrait photography. Shadows may become a problem, so use a reflector or large piece of white card positioned on the other side of the subject to fill in the shadows.
